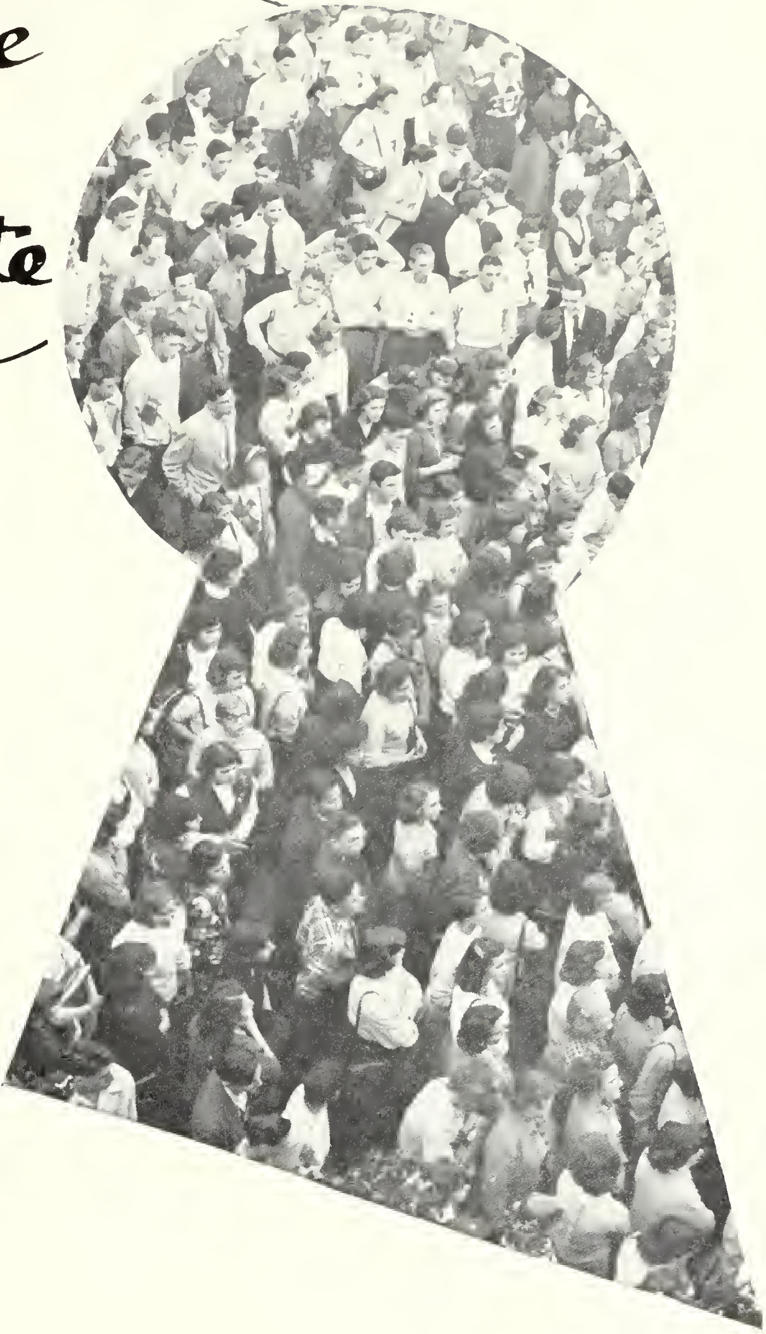
Introduction

The Key
Is our theme.
It is our theme
Because it opens two doors;
One—to life at Brookline High,
The other—to tomorrow and the future.
Who holds these keys?
Sagamore, the Indian in our Seal
Holds the key to Brookline.
The other you hold—
The key to
The future.

So We Dedicate



This book to you—The students of Brookline High School
For you are the key to the future
For you will unlock the doors of time.

Murivian Editorial Staff

Room 121 at the close of the school is certainly comparable to Grand Central Station. The steam and combustion of the staff puffing away to meet deadlines and junior apprentices working feverishly to carry our orders and to learn how to run the yearbook characterizes the hard work and devotion that comprises our editorial staff. Conducted by Editor-in-Chief Alvin Somers, Carol Adler, Assistant Editor, and Jan Kadetsky, Layout Editor, and stoked by the junior apprentices, the fuel of the yearbook is put into a presentable condition. Every picture pasted, every job done, big or small, soon becomes an integral part of our yearbook. With the thought in mind that the MURIVIAN is an annual report of BHS and its accomplishments, the staff includes in the 160-page yearbook material representative of the school.

Murivian Business Staff

I walked into a secret room about a week ago and saw one of the most fabulous sights I have ever seen. All around the room were huge stacks of one dollar bills—why there must have been at least four thousand of them! I just stood there and gaped. Suddenly there was a noise behind me and the next thing I knew I was being led out of this miniature replica of the treasury of King Midas. As I was pushed out of the room of this hide-a-way, I discovered that I was in Room 309, Mr. Bates' headquarters for the MURIVIAN Business Staff. All that money had been collected by senior members of the business staff with the very able assistance of the junior apprentices. Under the capable direction of co-managers Elizabeth Cohen and Sandra Cohen with the treasurer Burton Bloomberg, a very efficient system has been devised whereby it only takes about fifteen minutes a day during the four collection weeks to tally this money which is then added to their junior Fort Knox where it is converted into the 1951 MURIVIAN.

Brookline School Committee

It is very difficult to find adequate words to express our feeling of gratitude and appreciation for the miraculous gift you have bestowed on the students of Brookline High School — The North Wing.

This monumental symbol of your effort and planning is indicative of the selfless devotion you have always given to Brookline's youth. Its monetary value is equally indicative of the faith and confidence the Muddy River Townspeople have in us.

We therefore, in thanking you, promise to take care of this building and take advantage of all the wondrous facilities it possesses, keeping it the finest of its kind in the country.

Doctor Robert G. Andrée

HEADMASTER

You've made it very easy, these past four years, for us to say in sincere appreciation, "Thanks for everything."

Thanks for being the warm and friendly person we greet with "hi's"; the guy we think of with mixed respect and comradeship as "Doc".

Thanks for being such a solicitous mentor, praising us when we've merited it and leading us back to the path which we've sometimes lost, never losing your faith in us.

Thanks for all the efforts you have made in our behalf and most of all, thanks for simply being you, a man of integrity and understanding, OUR DOC.

Miss Mary Sawyer

Our sincerest thanks to you, Miss Sawyer, for always providing us with a ready smile and a kind word. When we were freshmen, frightened by the aspect of four years in a large, strange place, you were there to encourage us and alleviate our fears. Because of your advice we joined some of the many activities and organizations and found BHS to be a warm amiable place. We realized BHS had much to offer and took advantage of our high school's innumerable benefits. Now as seniors we have attained independence in BHS through your guidance. Next year, once again, we are going to enter unfamiliar surroundings. However, this time we shall not have the trepidations of four years ago for your friendly advice and encouraging voice shall follow us wherever we go.

Mr. Raymond Woodman

Whatever our problems, no matter how many or how few, you were always there throughout our four years to listen, encourage, and advise. Many grim faces and troubled minds have entered the Guidance Office only to come away confident and reassured after one of your friendly consultations. When we were under-classmen you helped us choose our courses and extra-curricula activities. You helped us find after school and summer employment with as much, if not more, consideration and efficiency than any agency. In our junior year you helped us consider what businesses or colleges best suited our interests. This year, you gave us the most important device with which to pass our college examination requirements — self-confidence. Because of your excellent guidance, almost our whole senior class has been placed in the many jobs and post-secondary schools throughout the country. Thank you, Mr. Woodman, for having so thoughtfully helped to mould our high school career and to shape our future.

Mr. Robert Archibald

It's been just one short year since you came to Brookline High School and just one short year that we have been seniors at Brookline High. But in that year, you have come to be a friend and confidante to us all.

Working to relieve Mr. Woodman's over-filled schedule, you tried to aid each and every person who came to you with his personal difficulties to the very best of your counseling ability.

Helping us to help ourselves, you furthered along the painful process of growing up, and teaching us resourcefulness, you always made the solution to our problems come from our minds.

With such a wonderful beginning, we would like to wish you well in your future career at BHS and say to Roberts House: treat him well, for you are very fortunate to have a counselor whose heart, as well as mind, is interested in your welfare.

FACULTY

Art, Speech, and Music Department

Everyone of us has some latent spark of talent whether it be artistic, verbal or musical. The Art, Speech, and Music Departments headed by Miss Peckham, Miss Folsom, Mrs. Greenberg and Mr. Zanzig strive not only to kindle the flames of genius in Brookline's aspiring Rembrandts, Churchills, and Koussevitskys but to develop in them an enriching artistic appreciation.

Commercial Department

What is the source of American income and livelihood? Of course, it's commerce. Each year, BHS students are taught by the Commercial Department all sorts of helpful business skills, from filing to stenography; and are placed on the road to success in the vital world of commerce; the foundation of democratic free enterprise and the American way of life.

English Department

From the freshman's first sentence diagram to the senior's study of Hamlet our BHS English Department, under the guidance of Miss Spaulding aims to make great literature an integral part of our educational background. As great a goal of the department is desire to develop student literary ability in the junior and senior creative writing classes.

Homemaking and Library Departments

Under the efficient leadership of Miss Cronan and Miss Phillips, the Homemaking and Library Departments are hard at work, preparing BHS students for their work during and after their school days. In the Homemaking Department, pupils learn to cook, sew, and serve. The library is used as a meeting place, research room and study hall. Through the efforts of the teachers in these two departments, the students have gained homemaking skills and intellectual knowledge.

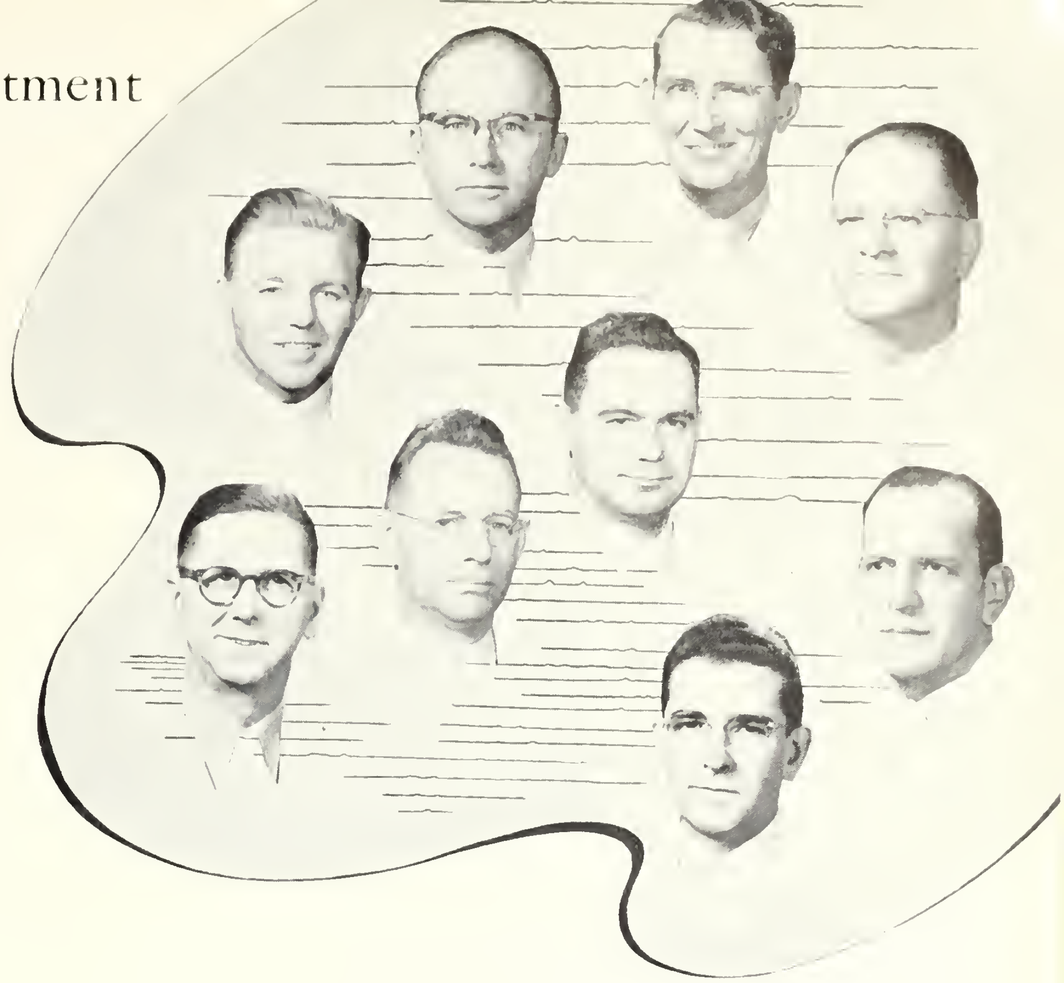
Industrial Arts Department

In this mechanized twentieth century the people on whom we perhaps demand the most are our industrial mechanics. Training BHS boys to take their place in our civilization of machines, Brookline High School's Industrial Arts Department contributes at the same time to the development of their individual aptitudes and abilities.



ROW 1: Mr. Edward Driscoll, Mr. Frederick MacMillan, Mr. Thomas Bowler. ROW 2: Mr. Guy Edmunds, Mr. Driscoll, Mr. John Ford, Mr. Fredrick Woodlock. ROW 5: Mr. Thomas McCabe, Mr. Paul Beaushmin.

Miss Jane Perkins, Miss Manter, Miss Congetta Vanecore.

Latin Department

To every classically minded student who aspires to a liberal art college education the Latin Department under the direction of Miss Perkins offers an enriching background of Caesar, Cicero and Virgil. These famous personalities assume a vital importance as the problems and obstacles of their world are shown to be identical to those of our own.

Mathematics Department

Since mathematics is both a business and college must, the teachers of the Mathematics Department have wholly and unselfishly devoted their time and efforts to counting and calculating ways and ideas to fully instruct students in commercial and scientific mathematics. Thanks to the special attention and instruction BHS students may obtain an excellent background in functional arithmetic, plane and solid geometry, algebra, and trigonometry.

Modern Foreign Languages

To strengthen the international bond so necessary at this time, the Modern Foreign Language Department instructs students in the life, language, and literature of Germany, France and Spain. The Department, headed by Miss O'Brien, carefully considers the abilities of the individual students by basing the classes on basal, middle, and advanced levels.

ROW 1: Miss Katheryn O'Brien, Miss Velma Holbrook, Mr. Paul Mather, Mr. Diepold Friedland. ROW 2: Miss Edith Douglass, Miss E. Leanore Placido, Miss Geneva Chamberlain.

Physical Education Department

A sound mind and a healthy body are two indispensable qualifications required for any career. Realizing this, the Physical Education Department, headed by Mr. Hines, has designed a program consisting of exercises and activities to help each student develop muscular control and grace. With the added facilities of the New Wing and the patient instruction of the Physical Education Department, all of us can certainly fulfill at least one requirement for the future.

ROW 1: Mr. Thomas Hines, Mr. Charles Bemis, Mr. Everet Weygant, Miss Rachel Kelley. ROW 2: Mrs. Norma Brusko, Mr. Francis Ball.

Science Department

Besides instructing students in the three main branches of science, biology, chemistry, and physics, the BHS Science Department also offers a prelude to scientific study in the General Science course. With a schedule full of presenting lectures, demonstrations, and movies the teachers of the Science Department still find time to aid and encourage all the future biologists, chemists, and physicists with their outside hobbies and projects for the Science Fair.

Social Studies Department

In addition to the excellent teaching staff, the Social Studies Department, headed by Dr. Edgerton, provides students with an enormous background of the world and its problems through frequent discussions, recordings, lectures and motion pictures. With courses in history, economics, government and problems, we have even been shown how to become better citizens in our democracy and the world.

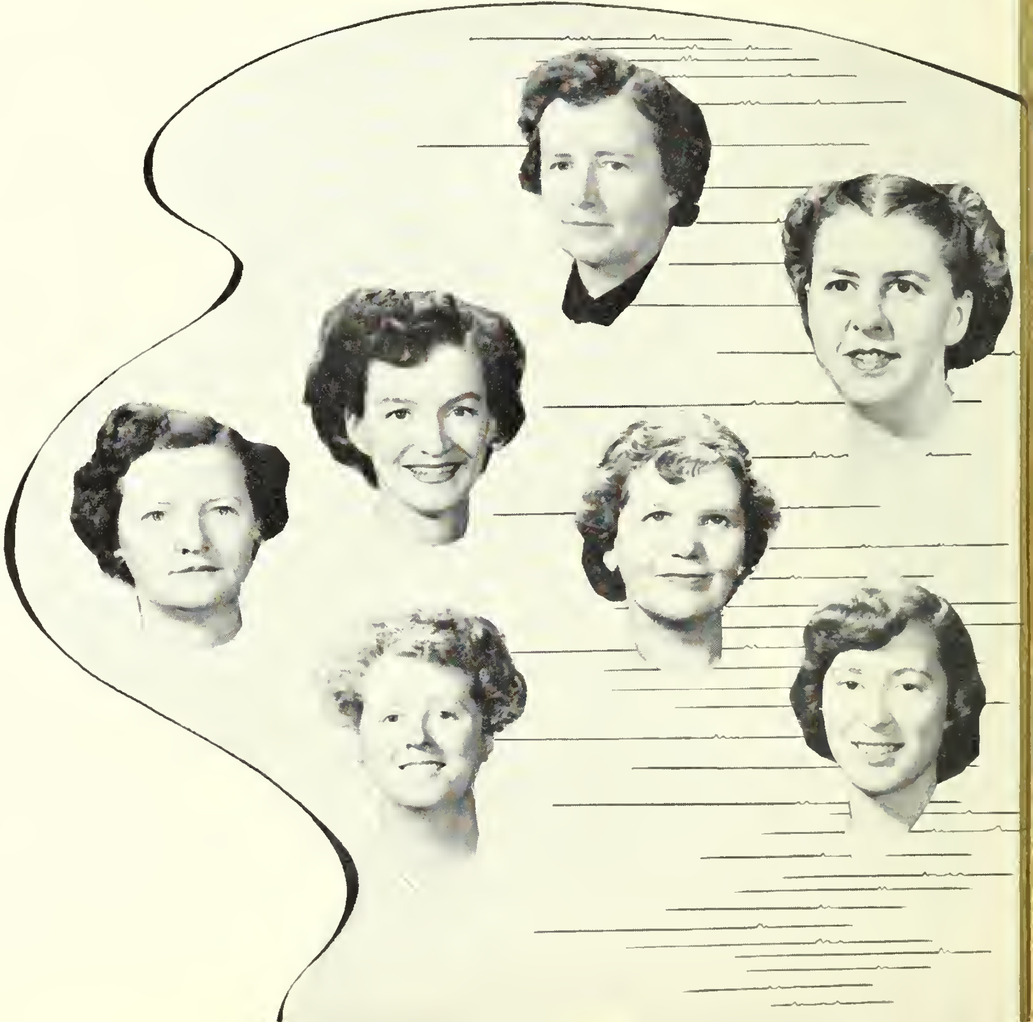
Administrative Department

Thanks to the friendly secretaries of BHS who have so cheerfully and efficiently done their part to keep our high school running smoothly and orderly. Besides carrying out their regular duties the Administrative Department is always willing to do extra favors for both the faculty and students.



ROW 1: Miss Mary Niland, Miss Mary Maloney. ROW 2: Miss Katherine Callanan, Mrs. Jeanette Garten, Miss Rose Anzivino. ROW 3: Miss Nora O'Leary, Miss Claire Corcoran.

Alpha Pi

"We pledge allegiance to the ideals of the Honorary Society. We solemnly promise to maintain the fine traditions of its past and to hand over to our successors its fair name untarnished." This pledge, taken by the initiates of Brookline High School's Honorary Society, Alpha Pi, who have fulfilled the exacting requirements of scholastic success and all round activity, is a declaration of dedication to uphold the high ideals of quality and leadership.

Guided by its inspiring adviser Miss Perkins, Alpha Pi has become not only the goal of BHS students but also the symbol of achievement once it is won. Its gold key is worn with pride, for its wearer has reached the top of a top-notch school.

School Council

Brookline High School, in the tradition of American Democracy, is governed by an organization of the students, by the students and for the students: the School Council.

Extending jurisdiction over all the various executive groups of our student government this council, faculty advised by Mr. McMillan, meets twice each month to discuss ways and means of improving BHS.

One of its notable achievements for the school year, 1950-51, was the solving of the ever-present problem of broken milk bottles—accidental or otherwise. The solution may be seen on the counters of our lunchroom at any lunch period: paper milk containers.

This group, representing our entire school with advisory spokesmen from each house elected directly by the house members, is the voice of an active and spirited student body.

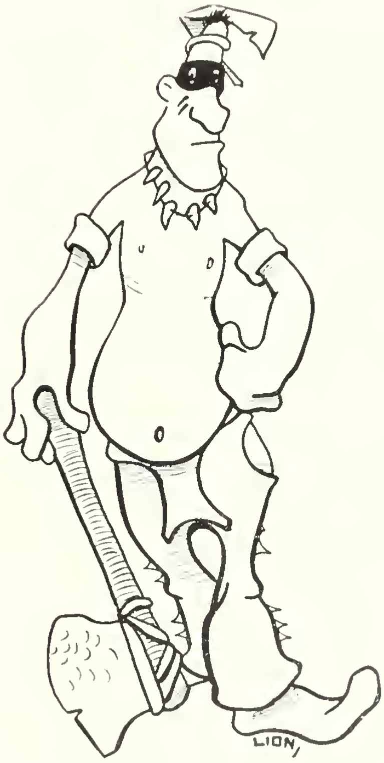
Court of Justice



Do you solemnly swear to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth so help you God? Upon taking this oath the legal offender presents his case before the BHS tribunal of the Court of Justice.

Before them, pounding the gavel, sits Chief Justice Ira Nottonson. The associate justices are helping Ira pronounce his sentences with mercy-tempered justice. The Court meets in formal session only in the case of trials. In the past, its authority has been confined largely to cases of misbehaviour in the cafeteria. The small number of trials this year suggests that the students of BHS are becoming cognizant of the fact that law and order means much when it comes to a top notch school like BHS.

The Court of Justice is required to distribute or publicize in some way an annual report of the progress and decisions made within each school year. Under the jurisdiction of Mr. Keene, the Court of Justice has become an efficiently run body of able and fair minded students.

Marshal Force

After the faculty of BHS endured for a week the constant and frenzied cries of hordes of confused freshmen all asking for detailed directions to every conceivable cubbyhole in the school, the Marshal Forces was established. Since then the Force has functioned not only as a guide but as the enforcer of the laws set forth by the School Council. It is the duty of each marshal to see that the laws are carried out by the student body and that violators of the law are brought to the attention of the Court of Justice. Each marshal wears a blue armband with a red letter "M" sewed on it. The marshals have posts in the corridors and the lunchrooms. The marshals in the corridors are stationed at spots where much congestion has been found such as stairways, intersections, doorways, etc. They are posted in such spots to see that as much order as possible be kept, that traffic moves as rapidly as possible, that no accidents occur as a result of unnecessary crowding or just plain roughhousing. The marshals that supervise the tables in the lunchroom see that eating is done in an orderly manner, that trays are taken to the counters after being used, and that the floor is kept clean.

Under the effective command of Captain "Sugar" Robinson and Faculty Adviser Mr. Walsh our BHS caretakers have done a commendable and appreciated job.

Aero Club

In this age of supersonic jets, atomic energy, and flying saucers all eyes are turned skyward. Gazing perhaps a little more intently and a little more intelligently than the rest are the members of Brookline High School's Aero Club.

The importance of air-knowledge in our present civilization is undisputably an influential factor in the formation of this club's projects. Expertly led by Mr. Warren this group explores the field of aeronautics, constructing plane models for theoretical examination and visiting airports for visual education.

As a part of this hobby the club members have learned much of the scientific background connected with aeronautics and have gained a valuable realization of the part air navigation is playing and will continue to play in our lives.

New mediums and techniques are introduced and tried by Art Club bers as they experiment in all phases of creative art. Proof that they attain an entirely new perspective and appreciation of the beauty in the things that surround them is evidenced by the results of their many sketching expeditions and work sessions which adorn the third floor walls.

Band

The buoyant strains of marshal music attracts our attention. We behold the brilliant spectacle of the band's neat marching columns of red, blue, and white, punctuated by the brass gleaming in the sunlight. We find ourselves screeching "As we march down the field" at the top of our voices. After the procession reaches Tech Field we have a word with Mr. Corley.

Of course we didn't have to be told that the band was tops — that fact is evident from the spirit it gives to all athletics and assemblies. There is also an exchange program. For example, the BHS Band visited Swampscott, and then Swampscott paid a return visit to Brookline. The Swampscott Band outdid itself and everyone agreed that the concert was superb. We thank the illustrious faculty leader most politely for his information.

As we walk away, we heard the Alma Mater being proudly played in the distance.

Bank Staff

Need any money today? If not today, you may need it tomorrow to help you save safely and efficiently for that inevitable rainy day. There are one hundred and sixty-six bank tellers, messengers and clerks working diligently under the watchful eyes of Mr. Hurd. Every other Tuesday the frugal followers of Bank Staff are hard at work. The home room tellers are pleading on bended knees for deposits, "even if it's only a nickel"; the messengers are scurrying about, trying to make the tellers hurry; the clerks are making bank charts; the staff chairmen are busily making sure that the money is brought to the proper place, counted, and sent off to the bank intact—there are house charts posted outside the house offices and the lunchroom for comparing the progress of the different houses. This friendly competition is for the good of each person in BHS—after all, no one objects to having a few dollars tucked safely away in the form of a bank account. A collection of Washington's and Lincoln's pictures with green backgrounds may be just the thing to help take care of college, a new formal for the girls or a Cadillac for the boys some day—compliments of the Bank Staff.

Biology Club

Fatigued craniums crammed with information about the origin of structures, functions and life history of vegetable and animal organisms typify the BHS biology students. For aspiring intellects, the Biolology Club offers both social and educational opportunities at meetings and excursions. The purpose of the club is to further the knowledge of biology through experiments, field trips and lectures. The "brief but important" meetings.

At the Yuletide season a biological Christmas tree decorates the corridor outside Room 328 bringing the spirit of the holiday from the biology room to the students of BHS.

The Science Fair, the future scientists' grande soiree, enables the student to display the fruits of his research which may vary from birds and bees to soup and crackers.

An annual trip to Wood's Hole or another recreational center climaxes the work and play of BHS's beneficial biologists.

With the new nest in the North Wing provided for the birds and biologists, the Biology Club can continue its good work on a larger scale.

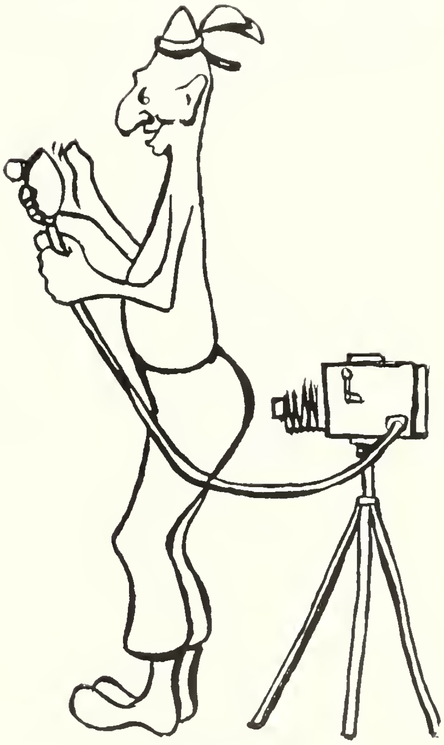
Camera Club



Burning lights glaring in my eyes, a frightened "cheese smile" illuminating my face, my hands clenched together on my lap. No, not the third degree but picture day for the MURIVIAN. What fun it must be to be a photographer. Then I heard about the Camera Club. There, beginners could learn the basic elements of photography. So devoid of any knowledge except the workings of my Baby Brownie camera, I timidly joined the Camera Club.

The meetings weren't held just for the developing of pictures but to have fun while learning. We took trips to Gloucester, Wayside Inn, Concord, and Lexington. It was actually going out and seeing interesting scenes which still remain quite vivid in my mind.

For those members who had photography as their hobby, the Camera Club gave an opportunity to improve and put what was learned into actual use. All students were allowed to participate in the annual photo contest and prizes were awarded to winners whose pictures were judged by a few members of the faculty.

They realized that I didn't know much about photography, but the omniscient upper classmen were quite willing to help. This year we will be able to use the new darkroom provided in the North Wing.

Lo and behold! The door was opened for me and who knows but I may be arranging the MURIVIAN picture schedule in a few years.

Central Treasury

What happens to our bank money after it is collected every other Tuesday? Let's ask the people who are really in the know, the members of the Central Treasury. They'll tell you before it is deposited, the members of the Central Treasury check the envelopes making sure that the columns are totaled correctly. The Central Treasury works long and patiently to straighten any possible errors. After this systematic accounting, the money is ready to be deposited.

All financial transactions of student activities are supervised by this group and their faculty advisers. Activity funds are offered a plan where they can be easily kept and accurately accounted for. Financial records of all school organizations are preserved for the benefit of the Superintendent of Schools, the School Committee and the Headmaster.

The student accountants of the Central Treasury are given opportunities for realistic business practice in this commercial department activity.

Chemistry Club

A small explosion followed by a scream of laughter rang through room 332. This mild disaster resulted from the mixing of two explosives: the curiosity and the energetic enthusiasm of the Chemistry Clubbers. Miss Campbell without whose leadership Brookline High might have long ago been reduced to ashes, rushed to the assistance of the potential chemists.

Any aspiring member, surrounded by piles of flasks, test tubes and stirring rods, may broaden his interests and knowledge through individual experiments, lectures, and demonstrations presented by visiting speakers and club members. Other advantages of the club are the many trips to industrial concerns.

In the early spring, the bees are not the only ones who are busy —the ambitions of the science classes are scurrying about, noses buried in research books and ingenuity being put to good use.

At the climax of a stimulating and happy year, there is an annual spring picnic. Since everyone's fancy is turned to thoughts of food all year round, the picnic is cooked on Bunsen burners.

Chess Club

"I'll take the white men this time," was the first thing he heard as he walked into the chess room at BHS. He wondered what it was all about—a revolution, or perhaps a riot. He asked one of the boys what was happening. The boy explained that the white men comprised one side and black, the other. Suddenly a lamentable wail interrupted the dissertation. "My Queen has been taken." "To your horses men!" someone cried, obviously very much upset. This shout drew his attention, but he wondered why such a fuss should be made over one queen. He learned that of the sixteen men, the queen was the most influential since she could travel at her own discretion. Numbering as protectors of this invaluable sovereign were her husband, the king, two castles serving as fortresses, two knights acting as royal body guards, two bishops doing sentry duty, and eight pawns comprising the phalanx of the king's army.

"But do they just play among themselves or do they wage wars with other schools?" he asked. "The latter, of course, my boy," came the reply. In Greater Boston Chess League, the BHS Warriors have won the championship in four out of the last nine years from such contenders as Boston English High, Boston Latin School, Milton High, Cambridge High and Latin, and Roxbury Latin School." Then as he left the room he heard the triumphant shout, "Checkmate!"

Choral Society

S.G.
Song
Moderato

Frannie Freshman had a horrible habit — she sat through all her classes humming and singing the latest tunes to herself. Finally one of her teachers, driven to distraction, suggested, "Frannie, if you really like to sing so well why don't you and a few other students who like to sing get together and form a club?" Thus the Choral Society was born!

The members of the Society do not have to boast operatic voices or a technical knowledge of music and harmony; all that's needed is lots of enthusiasm for singing.

Every Wednesday afternoon under the musical direction of Mrs. Jarrat the Choral Society vocalizes in harmony to classical, semi-classical, and popular tunes. Gracing many of our holiday assemblies these girls have shown what cooperation can achieve in the true spirit of BHS.

Debating Society

Brookline High is most fortunate to have within its confines, such a society of merit as the Debating Society. Under the guidance of Miss Folsom, the faculty adviser, it has maintained its almost undefeated record of the past. The Debating Society trains students in the art of skilled debating and builds up their self-confidence by bringing out the abilities of a student in natural argumentation. The student acquires the art of composition, coherence, the projection of ideas, and the ability to think and reason for himself. Despite the regularly scheduled interscholastic debates with such schools as Boston Latin, Roxbury Latin, Milton Academy, Andover, Brown and Nichols, and Newton, there is also the program which provides for intermural debates. This year several new principals were introduced. These are: the idea of individual coaching, a special tournament to be held for freshmen and sophomores, in addition to the traditional Debating Tournament held annually for the upper classmen towards the end of each session. Ira Nottonson, president, and Alan Ponn, vice-president are assisted by a capable staff consisting of Judith Seltzer, Marcia Ullian; they have done an excellent job in keeping the society running smoothly.

Dramatic Society

Tremendous! The Dramatic Society's "50" production, "Smilin' Through"! The acting? Terrific! The directing? Unique! Of course this is no secret to anyone. What is not so well known is the perfectly co-ordinated committees that work behind the scenes with such machine-like precision that their presence is scarcely noticed. Committees, before, committees during, committees after the play. Acting is only one phase of the Dramatic Society's workings. Electrical staff, scenery, tickets, publicity, costumes, and ushers all provide experience and activity for those who don't consider themselves budding Barrymores. But don't go yet — there's more to come. This large organization provides its great membership with educationally entertaining speakers and movies, helping students to develop their dramatic appreciations. So let's have an extra curtain call for Miss Folsom, chief director of BHS's most famous and active club.

The F. H. A.

No longer must a blushing bride serve bumpy potatoes and rubbery roasts to her first guests — at least not if she has gone to Brookline High School and has belonged to the F.H.A.

These Future Homemakers of America, under the expert guidance of Miss South, have gained invaluable practical experience in the domestic arts.

The newest addition to the membership of this once female aggregation, supporting the theory that homemaking is a fifty-fifty proposition, is the masculine faction headed by President Al Ginepra.

These male Betty Crockers, enthusiastically acclaimed, have become an integral part of the F.H.A. and are sure to become even more numerous in succeeding years.

French Club

Before the third Thursday of every month, such signs as "Jouer avec la Cercle Français" and "Réunion de la Cercle Français" are posted along the BHS corridors. Many might wonder what these strange words mean, but to a student of French they mean only one thing—a wonderful afternoon at the monthly French Club meeting. Varied activities are planned for the French Club meetings so that the members will have an educational, as well as interesting time. Guest speakers, well acquainted with French life and culture, are invited to relate their experiences in this field. Members present French skits and prepare French cross-word puzzles. French movies are also obtained. Since all meetings are carried on in French, only first year students having an "A" at mid-year or other French students having either "A" or "B" for year marks in French are admitted. French songs and refreshments end each meeting. This is an agreeable way to spend an afternoon, n'est-ce pas?

German Club

Sprichen de Deutch? If so, the German Club is just your meat. One day I accidently barged into Room 125 where a meeting of the German Club was being held. Near me were a girl and a boy, trying, by means which seemed to me, of grunts, groans, and ghastly contortions, to carry on a conversation. At first I thought they were in pain, and started to offer my assistance, when another person approached, explained something in a guttural tongue which I could not comprehend, and with a genial smile sauntered away. Immediately the groaning stopped and the couple were amiably chatting away, now obviously making themselves understood. Soon the meeting started. I saw movies of Germany and with the aid of an interpreter, managed to learn quite a bit about the German people and their current problems. I gaped with admiration as President Molly Plumb spoke the language easily and fluently. The club discussed their annual gala event, the Christmas Party — and I wished that I were a member. After the meeting was over I walked thoughtfully away, muttering, Das is goot.

Girls' League

Once again the Girls' League has brought the feminine members of Brookline High School together to form the most popular organization in the school. The League, advised by Miss Sawyer, Miss Poland, and Miss McCabe, has sponsored acquaintance parties, holiday fetes, and mother and daughter house teas. A Christmas workshop, and an annual supper party are only two of the League's useful, entertaining projects. Complying with their constructive ideals of the Girls' League has promoted vocational talks and trips, volunteer work in settlement houses and hospitals, and volunteer work in school offices and kindergarten.

Playing a large part in the future recreational plans of the League will be the new social rooms in the North Wing which will encompass the two relating elements of the Girls' League work and play.

So successfully has this group operated that there have been many cries from the student body for a similar boys' club.

The current jazz bands are criticized and news about artists appearing locally is released. The Jazz Society is one of the few organizations of its kind in Brookline High School. It encourages free thinking and stimulates the members with the desire to become better acquainted with its origins, its many forms, and various styles.

Library Aides

Let's see now. I'd like a biography of Thomas Paine. Where would that be? I can't look through every shelf in the library. Maybe if I ask that student stamping books over there behind the desk he can help me.

Well, what do you know? He showed me just where it was. I wonder how he knew. Why for goodness sakes, how silly can you get. If he's stamping books he must be a Library Aide.

Those are the people who help Miss Phillips and the other librarians to run Brookline High's book-lending system smoothly and efficiently. Some of them work before school, some after school and others during the day in their study periods. They sure must learn how to use a library. Gee, if I have any study periods next year, maybe I'll sign up to be a Library Aide, too.

Literary Society Readers' Group

How many times have you read a book that you sincerely enjoyed and thought, "I wonder if anyone else has read this book and feels the same way about it that I do?" Or perhaps you have read a book and thought, "Boy, that's pretty awful! I'd sure like to hash it over with someone who knows about writing and see what's' wrong with it."

In either case, if you like to discuss the things you read, the Readers' Group of the Literary Society is the place for you. With the help of faculty adviser, Miss Tiews, you can gain a finer appreciation of literature and a more discriminating mind toward selecting your reading material and developing your taste.

It was once said by Francis Bacon, "Some books are to be tasted, others to be swallowed, and some few to be chewed and digested."

Perhaps your contribution will be printed in the new publication Literary Leaves issued last year for the first time as a collection of the most promising works submitted by group members.

Edited by Miss Tiews, Literary Society Faculty Adviser, this magazine shows much indication of growing into a school-wide institution with its material written by students not necessarily Society members.

Everyone can qualify, so any time that you feel like writing down your feelings about childhood recollections or nasty teachers, say it the way you feel it and bring it along to the next meeting of the Literary Society!

Lunchroom Staff

"Hotdish, please; salad, please — minus the mayonnaise; soup, please — the corn not the tomato." These requests may be heard any noontime Monday through Friday in the lunchroom of BHS.

Complying with these demands, patiently and willingly are the members of Brookline's Lunchroom Staff. Besides serving the hungry hoards of four lunch platoons numbering close to two thousand, these people keep ready a constant supply of clean utensils and help to tidy up the sometimes untidy student body.

Under the supervision of Mrs. Smith the staff operates efficiently in its important job of keeping growing boys and girls healthily fed. As hectic a place as our lunchroom seems, without the help of these students, it would be chaotic.

You know, that's a pretty good club, that Math Society. I bet they could tell a person practically anything about math. You just have to be interested! And if you are interested in a thing you understand it, and if you understand it — well you're good in it. Gee, I wish I was good in math. But I am interested in it. I'll join the Society and see if I can't get math to make friends with me. The President, George, is just talking to some of the other members. I'll listen in. He says that the purpose of the organization is to gain a supplementary knowledge of the mechanics and application of math, to derive enjoyment from its study, to observe its application by taking trips to places where it is used and to exchange mathematical ideas. He says that a person becomes connected with one of the separate interest groups in the Society and thus furthers one special interest in their weekly meetings. The Society as a whole meets every month. There are sometimes speakers who are mathematical educators representing all forms of business and professions at these meetings.

Music Society

"Who's in that room? What's that strange sounding piece they're playing in there?" asked Freddy Freshman almost in one breath. Since no one was around he opened the door and peered inside. Before him there was a group of students, faces rapt and expressions intent, listening to a record of an African religious chant. After it was over, one of the officers tip-toed over to the record machine and changed the record. Then the strains of Beethoven's Moonlight Sonata droned through the room. Following the great "B" came a Stan Kenton number and soon after a Swiss folk song. As the completion of a few more records of equally diversified nature, the members turned their attentions to a discussion on The Influence of Classical and Popular Music on the American Teen ager. A barrage of questions turned in Freddie's mind — "Is this a club? Do they play any kind of music you want? They must, if they play so many different types of music. Maybe at one of the meetings the members will be interested in listening to some records from my collection?"

Orchestra

One day a hobo walked into Brookline High. No, excuse me, it wasn't day, it was evening—a Friday evening. In fact, it was during the first performance of the year—"Smilin' Through." He looked around with a puzzled expression, turned to a student, and whispered loudly, "Hey you, who's dem symphony guys down dare?" The student was a bit startled, but in true BHS spirit he explained that it was the high school orchestra and settled back to watch the rest of the performance. The hobo whispered, "Who's dat tall guy wavin' da stick." "That's Mr. Joslin, the conductor," replied the student. He explained that the members play for every Dramatic Society production, various assemblies, graduation and also for Prize Speaking. At that point the hobo interrupted, "Wat's all dis about givin' prizes for talkin'? I bin talkin' all my life and dare ain't nobody ever gave me a nickel for a cup of coffee?" His generous companion gave him the nickel and continued, "The orchestra members present a musical assembly where the whole orchestra and perhaps a soloist perform." The hobo, having thanked his informant, turned to leave, but not before he impulsively thrust the nickel back into the student's hand, saying, "Here, give it to dat guy wavin' da stick, and say it's from a," he blushed, "an admirer!"

From the ranks of the many musically talented students of BHS were selected the most proficient musicians, the most accomplished instrumentalists — the envied members of the Orpheus Ensemble. This group, which usually does not exceed eight or nine in number, included virtuosos on the stringed instruments, the wind instruments, and, of course, the piano.

Under the baton of Mr. Joslin, the Ensemble practiced chamber music and prepared selections for Senior award night. Also performing at the South Eastern Massachusetts Music Festival these people demonstrated the benefits derived from Brookline's new music facilities.

Out of this gifted gathering of prospective musicians we will be sure to see some musical greats in the future.

Pep Club

It's not the pep of the pepper pot nor the pep of the mustard jug. What is it then? The pep of BHS, of course! Yes, the Pep Club, hardworking, energetic, and cheerful has attained the distinction of being the club that BHS just couldn't do without.

Imagine us without our cheery Pep Club as we walk into the new gym where spirited rallies used to take place. All is gloom. We look in front of the lunchroom where two or three enthusiastic Pep Clubbers surrounded by cheer leaders, football players, trackmen and other miscellaneous dignitaries used to sell tickets to school games. All is somber and quiet. Walls look bare throughout the school for the bright posters made by the club no longer appear. Even athletic events are not fun anymore. There's no Pep Club to keep up the cheering section. Not many people go to the out of town games because there's no Pep Club to arrange for transportation.

After all this, we are glad that we are only imagining the Pep Club is gone from the school, for actually, we couldn't do without it. No BHS student would remain very long without the Pep Club before he'd start singing, "Bring back, bring back, O bring back our Pep Club to us!"

Physics Club

Why does water boil? What makes a bulb light when a switch is turned on? Many of us want to know the "reasons why" and aren't satisfied with the usual superficial answers. We want more accurate, more scientific responses to our questions. To satisfy our more curious nature, BHS has supplied us with the Physics Club. Their varied meetings are designed to answer many questions dealing not only with "why things are so" but also with "how these things happen to be." Demonstrated lectures are given by the members and by learned men in the field of science. Films on subjects related to physics are obtained and trips to nearby places of interest are also included in the Physics Club's yearly activities. A joint meeting of the Physics and Chemistry Clubs is held once a month to discuss the progress of their closely connected fields. After learning the reasons "why" of several everyday phenomena, many members pass their knowledge on to others by exhibiting their findings in the Annual Science Fair. Any member will assert that an hour or two every month is little enough to spend for the wealth of knoweldge, fun, and understanding offered by the Physics Club.

Radio Club

"Good day boys and girls of BHS. This is Lulu Parsons your capricious commentator here to tell you how I got my start in radio. Believe it or not it was through the doors of your Radio Club that I first found the road to the fabulous future offered in the remarkable field. Ah well, let's start at the beginning. It was the September of my freshman year at BHS when I decided to join the Radio Club. From the start, my understanding of radio was broadened by guest speakers and discussions provided at the meetings and the actual experience gained by broadcasting over the local stations WHDH, WCOP, WVOM, and WMEX. I took advantage of the numerous offers of the Radio Club and participated in the disc jockey contest and in a presentation for American Education Week. Then in my senior year came my big chance. I competed in one of the WCOP monthly talent shows and I won. This was my first taste of success and I shall never forget it or the Radio Club of BHS, which through its many facilities and opportunities gave me, and is still offering to others—a start. Well goodbye all, and thanks for listening."

Red Cross

To American children heaven is a place where the streets are paved with gold. But, to the war devastated European children heaven is a place called America. America has clothes that are abundant and clean, food that is healthful and easily obtained, homes that are warm and in one piece, and air that is free from the odor of sickness and death. The Junior Red Cross of BHS, advised by Mr. Edmunds, has tried to do its part to establish a heaven on earth for these European waifs by collecting money to send necessary articles overseas and filling gift boxes with everyday commodities such as paper, pencils, erasers, hair ornaments, tooth-paste, soap, and toys. The pennies we contribute to the National Children's Fund rarely prevent us from having even a nickel candy bar and the odds and ends we supply for the gift boxes are insignificant and meaningless to us, yet they mend countless lives shattered by the ravages of war. Next time the Junior Red Cross sponsors a drive to alleviate the suffering of Europe's children, let's aid the BHS representatives by digging a little deeper into our change purses and hunting a little longer in our attics for something that will help those who are less fortunate than we.

Sagamore

O.K. Mac, I'm ready — shoot the scoop! The staff of the BHS Sagamore is accused of having a well run, well organized paper! Any clues? Oh, so they put out thirteen issues every year and report to the students the up to the minute news on new developments and sports highlights of BHS. What? They also keep up with the progress of the outstanding alumni in the many colleges and businesses all over the country! Ah ha, so they print the opinions of the students on vital questions and publish a Who's Who of the Senior Class. Don't tell me they interview the eminent authorities that visit the high school, too. Well what do you know, they have an exchange column. Oh! so all this isn't an inside job! Any student may contribute letters to the editor, poems, or stories if he wishes. This staff really keeps busy getting ads from all the high-class stores and they even give the students a rotogravure section. Well, thanks for the information, Mac. I think we've got enough to convict the staff of the BHS Sagamore of issuing a truly good paper.

Ski Club

It's a bird — It's a plane — No! It's a Ski Clubber whizzing down the snowy hills of the Commonwealth Country Club. Clusters of snow bunnies are gathered around wistfully watching the advanced members and looking forward to the day when they themselves will be coasting down these icy slopes, assured of a two-foot landing. Before the members of the Ski Club actually "take off" or become advanced, they receive a great deal of "ground work" consisting of informative lectures and ski movies which offer much valued instruction. These plus informal discussions improve techniques and provide self-confidence. Solemn prayers for snow are rendered at the end of every snowless meeting by the beginners who wish to advance and the advanced who wish to excel. When the welcomed snow finally arrives the ski clubbers waste no time climbing to the nearest hill and soaring up . . . up . . . and—away.

Social Customs

Today popularity and success are not based on just beauty or brains or personality; they're a combination of all three. To help mix these ingredients in the correct proportions, the members of the Social Customs Club design their meetings to include helpful hints on all social musts. Good grooming, social poise, and proper manners are so thoroughly discussed that tact, versatility, and courtesy all become second nature to the girls. Noted authorities on fashions and boy-girl relations are invited to speak to the members and a full length movie is an annual feature of the club. Another custom of the club is to hold Hallowe'en, Christmas, and Valentine parties. This year the Customs Club invited the whole school to their Valentine Soirée with such good results that they plan to do this every year. More often than not the popularity plus girls of BHS are products of the Social Customs Club.

This group, under the supervision of faculty adviser Miss Placido, enjoys an atmosphere of Spanish culture embodied in the slides, records, and souvenirs shown at its meetings.

The Christmas Party and annual outing are featured as the headlining events of the club's activities, complete with the festive games native to Latin American celebrations.

Have you heard enough? Well, you can't become a member until next September. Be patient because it won't be long before you can go to the first meeting of the 1951-1952 Spanish Club.

Stage and Electrical Staff

Off go the lights and up go the curtains! These indispensable preliminaries often times remain unnoticed but not unappreciated by the Dramatic Society who could not perform without the aid of the Stage and Electrical Staff. Setting up props, adjusting lights and public address systems are only a part of the many important tasks of this organization. These men behind the scenes stand by the actors through the "thick and thin" of rehearsals but rarely get an acknowledgment at the bottom of the program. Actually in order of importance, the Stage and Electrical Staff should be on top of the list on the front of the program. Hats off to the Stage and Electrical Staff who worked unselfishly to help make BHS assemblies and Dramatic Society productions successful.

Student Forum

"Today we are in a state of National Emergency." All of us have heard President Truman's declaration but not all of us fully understand what this means. Endeavoring to define this and other currently important matters, the Student Forum has presented speakers well-versed on current events and obtained films pertaining to world conditions. For better understanding, a question period is held at the end of each meeting and student debates are scheduled. The problems that the Student Forum considers are so pressing and so vital that home-room periods in the course of the year are devoted to the Forum's programs so that all students might benefit from them. In addition, the Student Forum presents a freshman assembly to better acquaint the newcomer with the many activities and benefits BHS has to offer. Most important of all, however, the Student Forum offers the future leaders of America a chance to speak and be heard.

Students' Handbook

Do you have problems? Are you suffering from indecision about the future? If so, buy the Students' Handbook, guaranteed to solve all queries from the freshman right through the senior year. This "evade mecum" provides a floor plan for bewildered freshman who arrive late to classes because "the elevator forgot to show up." It aids puzzled sophomores to plan their courses for the rest of their high school career and to find some helpful and interesting extra-curricula activities. The juniors are helped in deciding what colleges or businesses they are best suited for and the senior is provided with a section on applications, interviews, and college examinations. Bell schedules, a school calendar, and the dates of important sports events are also included for every students' convenience. As is evident, the aim of the Students' Handbook is to provide a maximum knowledge of the history, curricula, and activities of BHS for a minimum price. No student should be without his pocket edition of the answer man.

Vocal Ensemble

Do, re, me, fa, so, la, te, doooo. Arpeggios, trills, chords, and scales bubbled audibly from the Music Room of BHS's North Wing. These female warblers, under the direction of Mrs. Jarrett, head canary, have gathered weekly, not only to enlarge and increase their musical knowledge, but also to improve and develop their vocal ability. The Vocal Ensemble, a carefully hand-picked organization, has enthusiastically exercised its vocal chords and has expanded its lung power by consistently providing Brookline High with entertaining and skillful auditorium performances.

Besides enhancing school assemblies by relaxing and enjoyable programs, these songstresses have appeared in two concerts and at the Massachusetts Music Festival in Attleboro.

A few members of the Ensemble have attained the honor of performing on various occasions as radio and television soloists.

Coach Fitzgerald, slightly optimistic, called a meeting of the veteran baseball team late in March. Answering his call were ten of last year's players, seven of which were lettermen. Heading the list was Captain Larry Wilson, a three-year third base veteran. The infield was completed by Jim Archibald, Dick Wilkins, Dick McConnell and Billy Raia. The outfielders were Joe Wight and Tom Roche and Bob O'Connor was back to handle the catching chores. The mound staff was headed by south-paws Howie Kaplan and Dave Stein.

A few newcomers such as Jim Hyde and Carl Hathaway from Coach McCann's Junior Varsity and Frank Salmaine and Bob Conway from last year's Freshman team filled capably the few openings left in the Red and Blue's veteran-laden club.

The most noteworthy exhibition of good basketball technique in pre-league encounters was the win over Newton in the dedicatory game of the North Wing. The team confidently entered regular league competition only to be hit by a string of tough-luck games the most memorable of which were the disputed loss to Arlington and the heart-breaking defeat to Newton of our last game.

In the starting line-up Don Brady, second highest scorer in the Suburban League, and Sonny Monosson were individually outstanding for their aggressiveness and ability to come through in a pinch.

Possessing a nucleus of only eighty seniors on the entire squad, Coach Downes wisely utilized his sophomore and junior talent with an ever-present eye to the future. In this manner Coach Downes attempted to give his promising under-classmen an opportunity to gain invaluable experience. With this in mind then, one can understand the fact that the scores hardly showed the true picture. In many of the games, the BHS under-classmen match the play of its best opponents. Co-captains Larry Wilson and Bob Broadbent, the latter of which received mention on several all-scholastic teams, were the bulwarks of the squad. Others to be recognized in the forward wall were Al Ginepra, Mat Sugarman, Joe Wight and Richie Ward. The backfield parade was headed by Wilson, Ed Reddish, Bill Dooner, Hal Bowers, and Bob Conway. Special mention must also be given to the superlative kicking of sophomore Frank Salmaine, for which he was highly praised by opposing coaches and newspapermen.

Fore! Pros Sh!

The 1951 edition of Brookline High's Golf Team proved itself to be a strong athletic representative with the return of veteran lettermen Captain Paul Taylor, Gerry Flick, Ben Murphy, and Bob Jansen. After considerable practice at the Brookline Municipal Golf Course, the Woodlock-coached team launched a successful season against Winchester, Brockton, Waltham, Watertown, and Newton. Captain Taylor contributed much towards the squad's many victories as he consistently carded low scores. Flick, a three year veteran playing-manager, using only his irons, constantly exhibited an accurate and powerful stroke. A newcomer to the team, Charles Devine, ably represented BHS and was regarded as the team's longest driver. Another standout, Ben Murphy, displayed a cagey brand of golf which gained him considerable recognition, while Bob Jansen, a junior, gained the respect of all his opponents by his consistent steadiness.

Anxiety

Under the guidance of Coach Clem McCann, Brookline High captured fourth place in the Eastern Massachusetts League standing this year. Highlights of the season's play were the opening game where Brookline crowded the Eastern Massachusetts League Champs, Dedham, to a one to one deadlock. In the thrilling second encounter, with Malden, Brookline trailed two to nothing with more than two minutes to play. Eddie Kirraine from center ice, skated in, split Malden's defense and drove the puck into the back of the net to score. Seconds later, after the faceoff, veteran Jim Donovan took a pass from Eddie Kirraine and caught corner net with the puck to tie the game. The following week, Natick's sensational team came from behind three times to tie Brookline three to three. From Brookline's ice squad, Ben Murphy, Artie Palmer, Jimmy Donovan, George McCue and Carl Hathaway were picked to play in the All Star Game. In addition to these players, much credit is due to the outstanding leadership and sportsmanship exhibited throughout the season by Captain Paul Riley.

Briefing Pays Off

Around the nucleus of three returning lettermen, Coach Coutts and his 1951 Swimming Team splashed through a fair season. Against both high school and college opponents, the advanced dog-paddlers upheld Brookline's fine reputation. The freestyle assignments were handled extremely well by co-captains Paul Friedman and Jack Edwards, ably assisted by Jerry Slafsky and Burt Hurvich. In both the backstroke and freestyle events, Bob Jantzen performed professionally. Haskell Kassler proved valuable in the individual medley swim while Ronny Weintraub and Joe Yanofsky did as well in the backstroke.

Sidelights of the regular season were the medals won by Friedman and Edwards. The latter's was garnered at the Massachusetts State Interscholastic Meet at Gardner, while Paul received his award for winning the N.E.A.A.U. 1500 meter freestyle in Pawtucket, Rhode Island.

With many of the boys returning, Coach Coutts looks forward to an even better season in 1952.

Tackling one of its longest schedules in recent years, the Brookline High tennis team, led by Captain Mike Dukakis, opened on April 20 a rugged 21-match which included the Exeter Interscholastic and the State Tournament at Newton.

The largely veteran team was considered by Coach Monty Wells to be one of his best-balanced clubs in years. As a result of the annual fall tournament, the team's seedings found Dukakis in number one spot followed by two more seniors, Walt Goldfarb and Bob Wool. Rounding out the first six were sophomore Larry Sears, Herb Ginsburg, and Ed Brody.

This year for the first time the racketeers gained valuable experience in the North Wing where indoor tennis made its debut. This preliminary practice was of great benefit in the early matches of the year and started the team on its hard-fought and successful season.

Down and Out

This year's BHS Cross Country Track Team gained the title of "1950 Metropolitan League Champions," by defeating all league opponents.

High praise is due to the boys who worked together to produce such a splendid record for their first year in the league. The three top runners of the team, Henri Lion, Reid Wiseman, and Mike Dukakis, consistently led the Red and Blue to victory. In five dual meets, Henri was the victor each time. Ronald Kugell, another strong runner, and sophomore Bob French aided in keeping the Tracymen in contention in each meet by repeated outstanding performances. Warren Foster, although running for the first time, was another stalwart who tallied regularly. The highlight of the year occurred when Lion, Dukakis, Wiseman, Foster, and Kugels took the first five places to score a shutout against Malden Catholic.

Why Coach Tracy Is Proud of the Boys

Paced by Captain Edgar Robinson, who consistently placed in both the 220-yard dash and the broad jump, the Spring Track Team compiled a creditable record. Balance was the keynote to the team's success as there were several lettermen in nearly every event. In the field events Howie Forman and Al Ginepra were the high jumpers while Joel Shalek was the outstanding weight thrower. Lettermen hurdlers in the persons of Ira Nottonson in the lows and Forman in the high provided a strong nucleus in this event. Another senior, Dave Gussak, accounted for points in the timber-topping event. In the 440 Al Wernick and John Jacobson were rarely beaten while newcomers Mel King and Warren Foster paced the half-milers. In the mile Henri Lion was the best of the field and he made a great showing in all meets. Another miler was Dave Kopelman who garnered some valuable tallies. With many veterans returning once again, Coach Tracy anticipates another successful season.

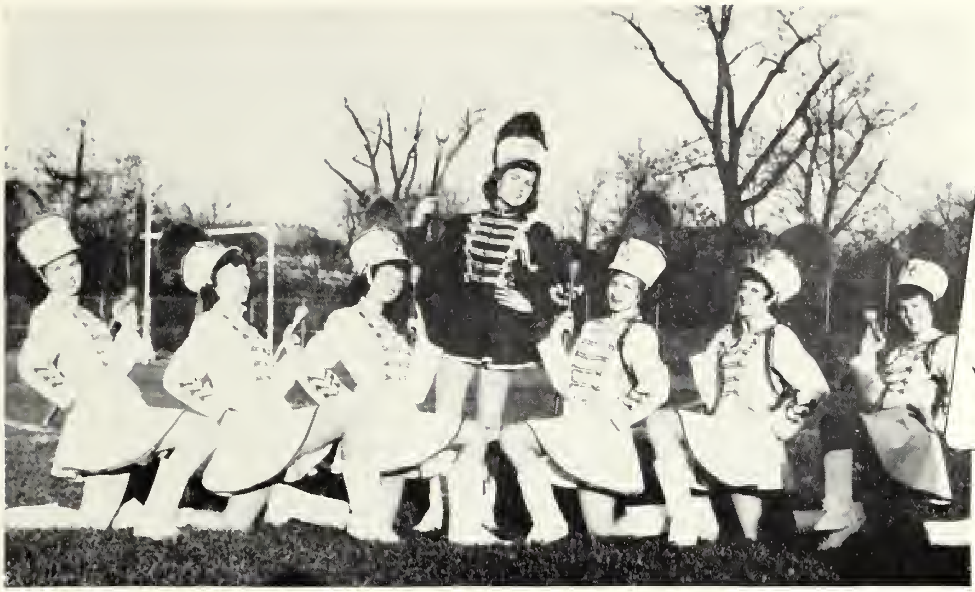
Yea Team!!

Did you know that only one-half of "yea team!" can play football? The other half? They're those peppy, pretty, pert lassies called cheerleaders. The most versatile of all athletes, they can be seen in their snappy blue and red uniforms at any football, basketball, and baseball game as well as while cheering track, tennis, and swimming men on to victory.

This select group, and it certainly is select, is hand-picked by Mr. Hines and the present head-cheerleader. On most Friday afternoons the lusty yells of these brewers of school spirit reverberate from the walls of the gym. At pep rallies, led by vivacious Carol Donigan, these bouncing beauties increase both the atmosphere and the morale of BHS.

DRUM MAJORETTES



Costello, Small, O'Connor, Simpson, McElroy, Fay, Maloney.

"Underneath the Arches"

Sandy and her Bevy of Beauties

Sparkling in their snappy white uniforms, Brookline's Drum Majorettes are an enhancing asset to pep rallies and athletic contests. These terpsichorian twirlers are resplendent in their new uniforms in spirit with the new wing. Frequent rehearsals and exacting performances are representative of their effort to continually provide BHS with a well-trained, precision-like "added attraction," twirling expertly, unbothered by wind and weather.

These gals are the flowers of BHS's garden and the feathers in its blue and red beanie. We hope that their successors will grace Brookline's athletic field for many years to come.

Girls Sports

With the addition of the new wing, Brookline girls are taking full advantage of both the intra-mural and inter-mural sports facilities. Guided by the experienced coaching of Mrs. Brusko and Miss Kelley, girls of all houses have found a varied schedule of physical extra-curricular activities. All year round, girls participate in swimming and modern dancing. In Fall, the fairer sex takes part in field hockey, riding, and tennis. The colder months, confining the activities to the indoors, find team games, gym teams, and basketball very popular. With the return of warmer weather, the spotlight is focused on tennis, softball, golf, archery, and riding. The success of the program may be attested to by the fact that several hundred girls participate regularly in these activities.

ROBERTS HOUSE

Make way for BHS's new seniors! For three years illustrious Roberts House has been making high school history.

Its members are represented in every phase of school activity. They are active in student government. They do the majority of the banking for the school. Some of its members are talented orators, a fact proven by participation and victory in prize speaking. The artistic find enjoyment in creating scenery, decorations, and posters for the school. The dramatic emote in the various school presentations, and have brought pleasure to their schoolmates this year in "Smilin' Through," and, on the vocal side, have held the two leading roles in the operetta. The school dances are sparked by the varied talents. The musicians of Roberts House strike up the band and school spirit with their lilting marches, while the orchestra renders sweet strains for concerts and dramatic productions. Last but by no means least are the athletics, girls as well as boys. A fine gym exhibition was given this year, in which several Roberts House members took part. The athletes are ably supported by spirited cheerleaders and majorettes. Yes, the juniors certainly are and have been busy and of diversified interests around BHS. But next year there are the Senior Prom, Class Day, and Graduation, in the future for Roberts House, a future which is bound to be a rosy one. The advantages of the close faculty-student relationship and general enthusiasm promise a fine graduating class in 1952.

LINCOLN HOUSE

The sophomores have been making the most of their possibilities and are looking forward to being upper-classmen next year. Lincoln House has made a record to be proud of this year! Both the boys and girls have been active participants in sports, and the athletic teams have been greatly bolstered by their support. Girls are taking part in various other organizations, especially the Girls' League. In banking, the members of Lincoln are striving to wrest the honor from Shailer House. Maybe next year, when their chief adversaries are gone, they'll be table to attain the place of honor.

On the average of once a week, you can see the happy sophomores flocking to the auditorium for one of their famous and varied assemblies. Included in these are the "Collegians." Under the direction of Mr. Dunbar, a group of boys organized a vocal ensemble to entertain at these assemblies. These virtuosos, along with the other talented members of Lincoln House, entertain their teachers and classmates. Also included in these class meetings, are the teachers and students who, in order to better acquaint the sophomores with their school, tell them about the clubs, societies, and opportunities at BHS.

AKERS HOUSE

Our fabulous freshman are principally noted for their abilities in politics, athletics, and social activities. Frosh are not the wide-eyed innocents that they often may seem —at least not the Akers House freshman. As soon as these busy newcomers walked into BHS, things began to happen. They elected Peter Van, Steven Stone, John Lee, and Phyllis Kelleher as their officers. Then they marched out to the athletic field and gave BHS some prospective lettermen such as John Clausen, Jim Dewire, Chesley Gray, and Robert Wagner. Socially speaking, Akers' leadership is evident. Early in April, they showed what a wonderful social they could give.

The debut of Akers '54 has certainly been an impressive one. Long may her blue and gold wave!

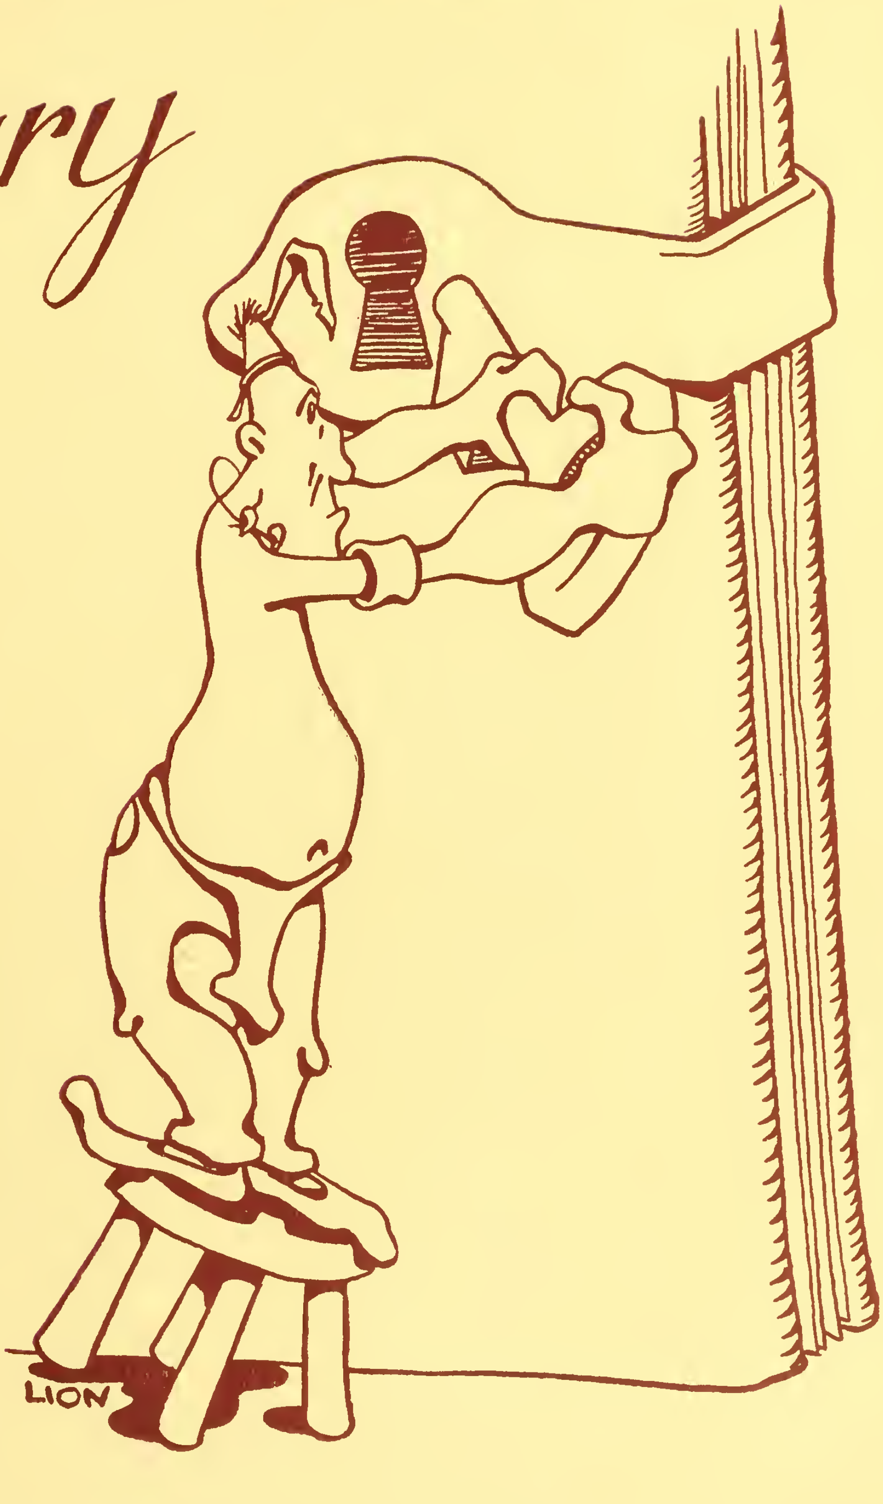
SPECIAL EVENTS

Diary



Dear Diary,

Class Day was held today. It was beautiful, and yet it was sad. The Junior Aids, the Senior Flower Girls, and the Banner Bearers, who stood on the green fields, were framed by the lines of pupils. The seniors wore their graduation gowns and slowly filed in dark blue through the two rows of Junior Aids. And when the Seniors handed the Juniors the school flags and the numerals were raised again to the top of the school, it made us all think how soon we would be graduating, too.

Dear Diary,

Today the new gym was opened and dedicated. Early in the morning we stood before the school and the flag was raised. Then, Seniors having the honor of going first, we entered the new North Wing. What a beautiful building: gyms, and a darkroom, club rooms, music and bandrooms, a squad room, a kitchen, and a biology room with a zoo and a green house; everything a high school student could ask for. Dr. Andree, who helped us more than any other one person to have our new wing, and Mr. Caverly spoke; the Vocal Ensemble sang. Our house banners were hung on the walls to show us that the gym was really ours at last.

Tonight there will be a formal dedication. Town fathers will speak to Brookline citizens in the gym.

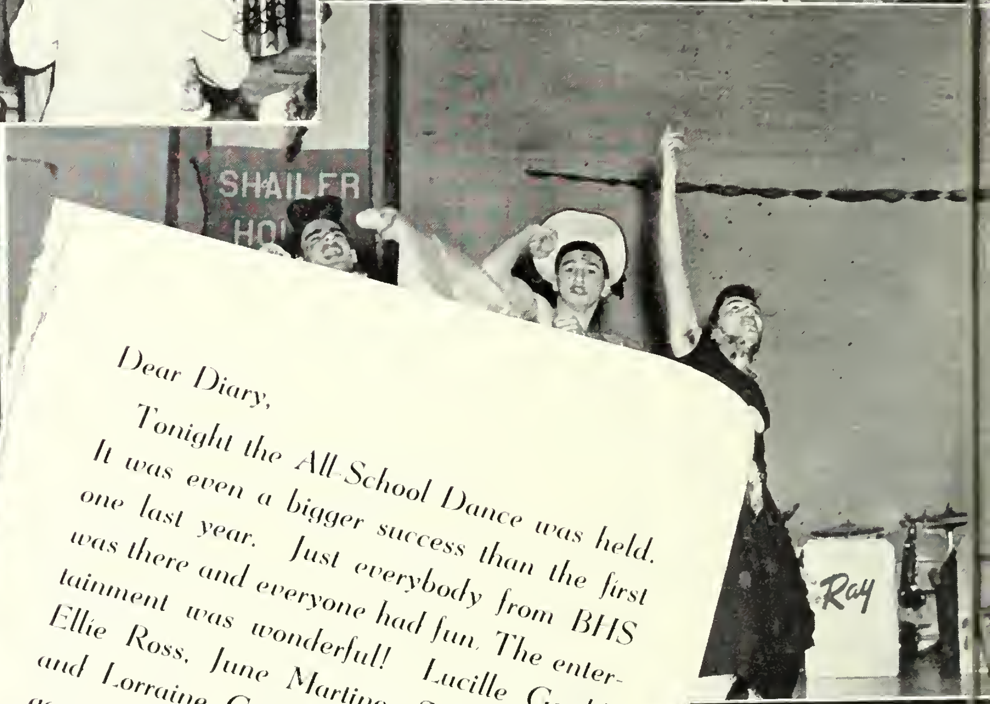
Smilin' Through
BHS
production

Dear Diary,

Tonight the Dramatic Society presented "Smilin' Through". It was a wonderful play—sad and happy, both. Henri Lion played the uncle who, because his own love Lucille Gould, had been shot by a jealous suitor, Nobby Rubinstien, forbid the love of his niece, June Martino, for Ira Nottonson who was the son of Lucille's murder. The murder was reenacted for us in Henri's memory, and finally Lucille returned to tell him he must be kind before he could ever see her ghost again. With this advice and the influence of an old friend, Don Silverman, (and the family maid, Charlotte Coan) June and Ira were finally brought together, Henri saw the ghost and cried, and love came "Smilin' Through".

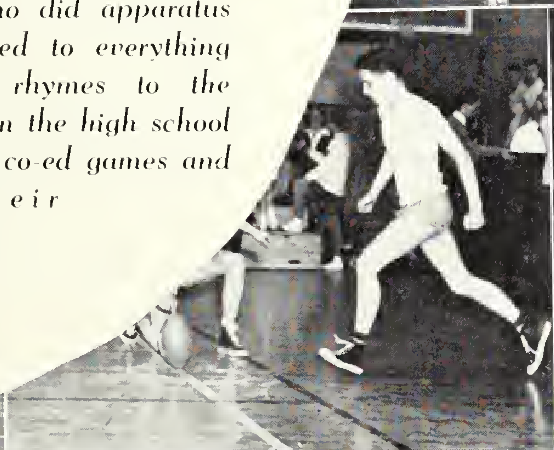


Dear Diary,

Tonight the All-School Dance was held. It was even a bigger success than the first one last year. Just everybody from BHS was there and everyone had fun. The entertainment was wonderful! Lucille Gould, Ellie Ross, June Martino, Saul Helpurn, and Lorraine Goldberg sang. Ray Dorey gave us some imitations. But the evening was just topped when Larry Halpern, Bob Fields, and Beryl Cohen did an imitation of the Andrew Sisters to two of their records. Two naval academy boys picked Johnny Gates Queen—or Miss College Board (they were the same day), and then we all danced some more before we were off to Johnson's or Frieda's or Topsy's.

Dear Diary,

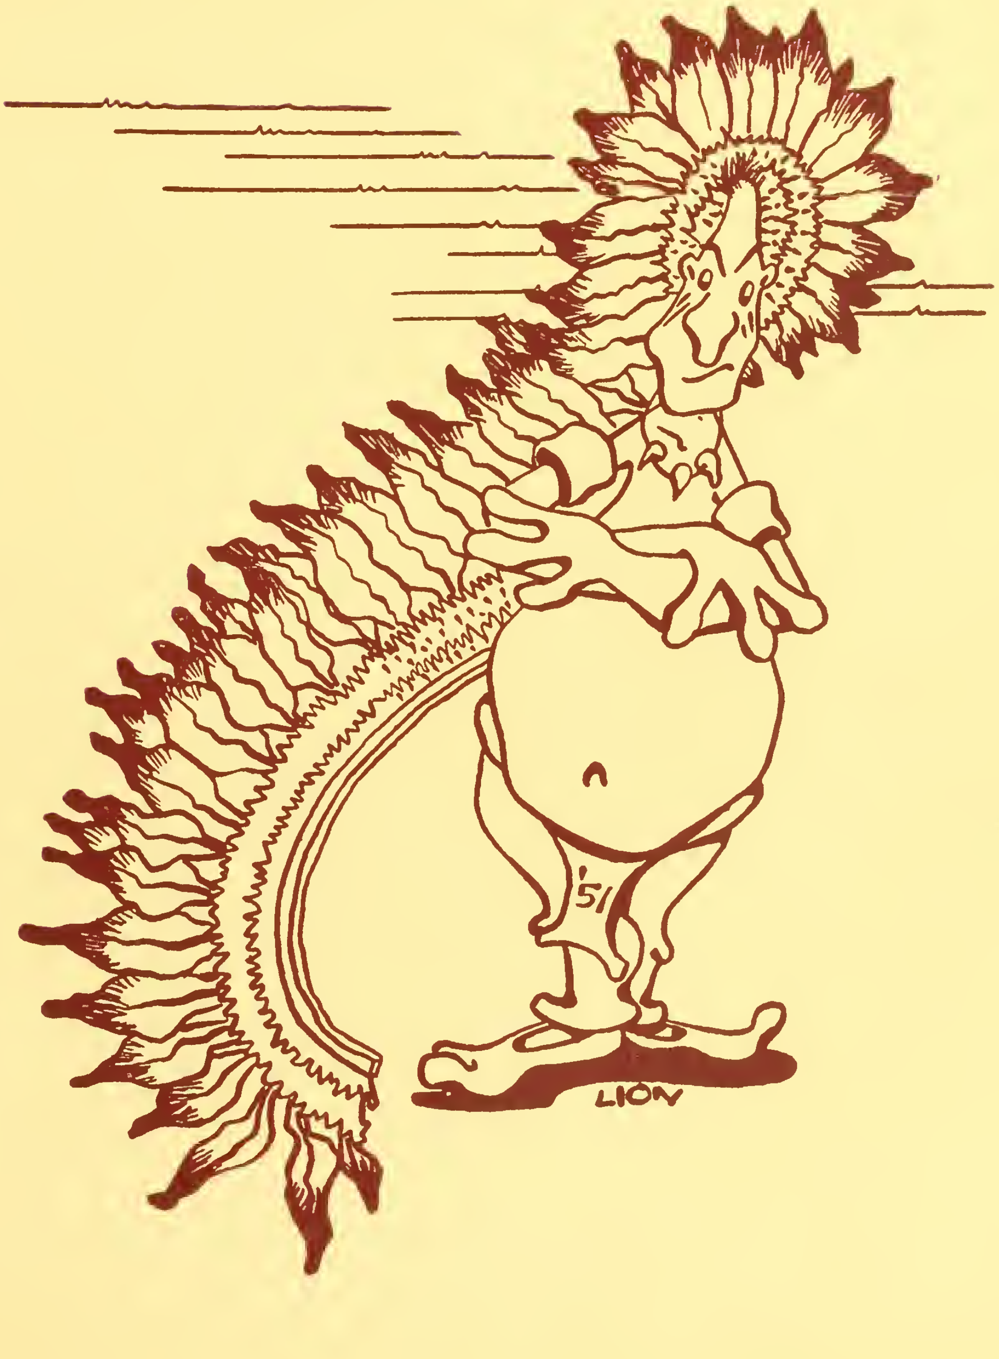
Today our new gym was really complimented. A gym teachers' convention met there and a demonstration was held for them. The grade schools sent representatives of all ages, who did apparatus work and danced to everything from nursery rhymes to the Charleston. Then the high school students played co-ed games and showed off their square-dancing.



Dear Diary,

I just added these last pictures to remind me of a few other special events. The dances where Jeanie and Iris and Elaine were crowned queens and where Ann sang. The Dramatic Society presented Royal Beal of "Death of a Salesman" and the Bishop-Lee Players. The Biology ClubChristmas Tree stood as always in the Science corridor. When the Murivian took pictures, Frank, our Dave Garroway, held the lights and Carl supervised. The Seniors stood in excited lines to receive their rings and pins. Norma Farber sang for the Music Society Mother's Tea: The fashion show presented BHS girls with a preview of fashions—sport and dress all in all pictures of a wonderful year.

SENIORS



To the Graduates of 1951

Four challenging years are over. Yes, I believe it fair to say that high school has been a challenging experience to all of you. This is good, for out of accepting and meeting a challenge comes growth, and growth is an essential ingredient of life. Only as we continue to grow does life contain vitality and meaning.

Thus my hope for you is that your futures may ever bring you challenges in the meeting of which you will find adventure and rich reward accompanied by the abiding satisfaction of work well done.

Paul W. Mather

To the Class of 1951

It has been a privilege to be Assistant Housemaster of Shailer House during your senior year. You have been exceptionally helpful.

My best wishes go with you as you enter broader fields of endeavor, which will be a challenge to you in every respect. New situations that you meet will evolve disappointments to be borne and obstacles to be overcome. You will have to work hard, be courageous, hold fast to high ideals, and make many sacrifices in order to attain the distinction and the happiness you seek from successful living.

The school has tried to prepare you to serve others and to be responsble citizens. Leaders are also vitally needed today. May it be your privilege and your duty to assume such leadership and help shape the destiny of mankind for the general good of the entire world.
